

I would like to talk today a little bit about the calculator.

I will go to the Spotlight, type in calculator. It will come up under Applications. I will launch it directly from spotlight.

And here is the calculator. Now this calculator you can use to do simple arithmetic. But did you know under "Window" there is "Show Paper Tape" and it will keep track of everything that we've done in the calculator. That's pretty nice.

Did you know if you click on this green dot it opens up and becomes a scientific calculator? And if you would like to know what all these buttons do you can go under "Help", and click "Calculator Help". You'll be able to see all of the different things from Performing Calculations... It also converts currency and measures, right under the "Convert" menu.

One more thing, if I click that green dot one more time... You actually get programmers calculator. It does the ASCII code, the Unicode, Binary. Click it one more time and you get the real basic calculator.

Hope you've enjoyed the calculator.
